Dalton Publishing is proud to announce the release of Robert Stikmanz latest work, Nod's Way. Drawing upon his skills as a poet, storyteller, illustrator, and designer, author Robert Stikmanz has produced a potent companion to his Lands of Nod series.

Nod's Way, the oracle of the Dvarsh, does not fit handily into familiar categories. It can be read as an authority or guide, like the Tao Te Ching, or it can be consulted as a fortunetelling tool, like the I Ching. Fleshing out the fictional world of the Dvarsh, a non-human people who have developed in tandem with homo sapiens, this central artifact of their culture represents the ancient wisdom and distilled values of the Dvarsh way of life.

This fully interactive work comes as a boxed set including a wisdom book, a journal, and three custom dice that allow readers to divine deeper meaning from the book than what is solely printed on the pages.

The Dvarsh, their interactions with our world, and Stikmanz's own peculiar brand of ontological fantasy were first introduced to readers last February with his novel Prelude to a Change of Mind.
